“Committed to Educational Excellence”

There are few, if any, jobs in which ability alone is sufficient. Needed also are loyalty, sincerity, enthusiasm, and team play.

- William B. Given, Jr., business executive, author -

Dear Colleagues,

I want to write to you simply to thank you for your work with virtual education during the recent mandated closure of our schools. The quality of the time and effort you gave cannot really be expressed in this letter. It is not possible for me to describe all the qualities it took to make the virtual school weeks successful.

Our students directly benefitted from your work.

The parents directly benefitted from your work.

And I think that among the greatest benefits were those that benefitted you directly.

You demonstrated that our education can jump into virtual-mode when events beyond our control make our normal classrooms impossible to operate. This achievement is a quantum leap beyond where we were only one year ago. You did the impossible and you did it with style.

Thanks for your loyalty, your sincerity, your enthusiasm, and your team play. Thanks for your dedication and for the care you give to our students.

Next time we are presented with such a challenge, I believe we will stare that challenge in the face and say, “Bring it on!” And we will again prevail.

You are wonderful people ... excellent educators ... dedicate and talented. I thank you for all of your good qualities.

Sincerely,

Mr. Douglas Holroyd
